JESUS SAVES

What's something you'd love to add to your celebration of Christmas?

QUESTION #1

THE POINT

Jesus was born to bring us into a relationship with God.

THE BIBLE MEETS LIFE

There's no doubt that Hawaii is one of the most beautiful places on earth. Given that reality, many people are surprised to learn that, during the 1800s, one of its islands housed a leper colony. Hawaiians who contracted Hansen's disease were sent to the island of Molokai to be quarantined.

One Roman Catholic priest named Damien saw the beauty not only of the island, but also the forgotten people who lived there. Father Damien made Molokai his home for sixteen years, choosing to live among the lepers, preach the gospel, and serve them. He used a variety of methods to restore a sense of community to the people of Molokai, but he was still an outsider. When he preached, he often started his sermons by saying, "You lepers..."

Then, a day came when Father Damien started to preach with a new phrase: "We lepers..." He had contracted the disease himself.<sup>1</sup>

In a similar way, God came to earth to live among us and say, "We humans." Jesus became one of us. That's what Christmas is all about.

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

Luke 2:4-7

<sup>4</sup> Joseph also went up from the town of Nazareth in Galilee, to Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and family line of David, <sup>5</sup> to be registered along with Mary, who was engaged to him and was pregnant. <sup>6</sup> While they were there, the time came for her to give birth. <sup>7</sup> Then she gave birth to her firstborn Son, and she wrapped him tightly in cloth and laid him in a manger, because there was no guest room available for them.

King David has always been one of the most important figures in Jewish history. He was the ideal example of a God-fearing king—a fearless warrior who trusted the Lord to protect him even against staggering odds. (See 1 Sam. 17:40-52; 18:5.) More importantly, David was a man after God’s own heart. (See 1 Sam. 13:14.) God promised David: “Your house and kingdom will endure before me forever, and your throne will be established forever” (2 Sam. 7:16). The eternal King, the Anointed One from God, would come from David’s lineage.

Imagine being taught as a child: “Just wait. Our Deliverer is coming, and He’s coming from King David’s lineage.” In Joseph’s day, generations had waited a thousand years for this special King to come to power. And wouldn’t you know it? Joseph was a part of that lineage. (See Matt. 1:1-16.)

Because Caesar Augustus wanted a census taken of his entire empire, Joseph had to report back to the town of his ancestors. That meant traveling to Bethlehem, “the city of David.” Making the approximately ninety-mile trip from Nazareth to Bethlehem posed several challenges for Joseph. For example, his fiancée was pregnant. In fact, Mary was far along in her pregnancy, which meant her son could be born at any moment. What’s more, Joseph wasn’t the only one called back to his homeland. The roads and towns were filled with travelers returning home for the census, which left no housing for Joseph and Mary.

What do you find most surprising in these verses?

QUESTION #2

The timing for this whole journey just seemed to be “off.” The circumstances appeared to be working against Joseph and Mary, but all this was right in line with God’s plan and timing: “When the time came to completion, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under the law, to redeem those under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons” (Gal. 4:4-5).

It’s good to plan, but things don’t always go according to our timing. God is at work behind the scenes of our lives, just as He was with Joseph and Mary. We shouldn’t focus so closely on how we want things to happen that we miss what God is doing in the bigger picture. God is in control, so trusting Him to be in charge of the plan and the timing isn’t just wise—it’s crucial.

Luke 2:8-14

<sup>8</sup> In the same region, shepherds were staying out in the fields and keeping watch at night over their flock. <sup>9</sup> Then an angel of the Lord stood before them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terrified. <sup>10</sup> But the angel said to them, “Don’t be afraid, for look, I proclaim to you good news of great joy that will be for all the people: <sup>11</sup> Today in the city of David a Savior was born for you, who is the Messiah, the Lord. <sup>12</sup> This will be the sign for you: You will find a baby wrapped tightly in cloth and lying in a manger.” <sup>13</sup> Suddenly there was a multitude of the heavenly host with the angel, praising God and saying: <sup>14</sup> “Glory to God in the highest heaven, and peace on earth to people he favors!”

Being a shepherd was a decent way to earn a living, but it wasn’t easy work. Shepherds were on guard 24/7, had to have a wide range of skills to care for their flock, and probably got weary of constantly counting their sheep. Many shepherds were responsible for a good number of sheep (which meant being in charge of considerable wealth), but their job was regarded as lowly.

What do these verses teach us about the purpose of Jesus’ birth?

QUESTION #3

Shepherds were once prominent in Israel—Abraham, Moses, and David had all been shepherds. Over time, however, shepherds lost their social standing. By the time of the New Testament, shepherds weren't even allowed to testify in legal hearings because their testimonies were considered invalid.

Yet it was this very group—men low on the social scale doing dirty jobs—to which God announced the arrival of Jesus. When the angel of the Lord appeared to these shepherds, they were “terrified.” I'm sure we can't fathom the depth of fear in these exhausted, cold shepherds as the dark night suddenly lit up like the brightest day and a glorious angel began to speak.

Thankfully, the angel spoke a message that was far from fearful: the Savior had been born! This Savior is the Messiah, the promised One from long ago. The glory of God Himself was wrapped in human flesh, and creation could do nothing but rejoice.

The angel didn't go to a political leader, Caesar's palace, or the temple where priests were going about their priestly duties. Instead, the angel went straight to those in the lowliest position. To these men who tended lambs, the angel announced salvation had come into the world.

The news was too good for just one angel. He was suddenly joined by a multitude of angels. Praise filled the sky as they proclaimed, “Glory to God in the highest heaven, and peace on earth to people he favors!”

What steps can we take to experience peace during the Christmas season?

QUESTION #4

Luke 2:15-20

<sup>15</sup> When the angels had left them and returned to heaven, the shepherds said to one another, “Let’s go straight to Bethlehem and see what has happened, which the Lord has made known to us.” <sup>16</sup> They hurried off and found both Mary and Joseph, and the baby who was lying in the manger. <sup>17</sup> After seeing them, they reported the message they were told about this child, <sup>18</sup> and all who heard it were amazed at what the shepherds said to them. <sup>19</sup> But Mary was treasuring up all these things in her heart and meditating on them. <sup>20</sup> The shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things they had seen and heard, which were just as they had been told.

I’ve known people who witnessed plane crashes, skiers who saw avalanches, and park visitors who felt the heat from out-of-control forest fires. Each of these people had something in common: once they had an audience, the first thing out of their mouths was, “Wait until I tell you what I saw!”

As soon as the angels returned to heaven, the shepherds hurried off to see for themselves what had happened in Bethlehem. When they arrived in the town, they were unable to contain their excitement. They eagerly retold the story, and “all who heard it were amazed.”

Mary’s reaction was more subdued. Rather than making loud proclamations, she simply “was treasuring up all these things in her heart.” Luke told us she was also “meditating on them.” Mary didn’t know it yet, but the road ahead would be tough. I wonder how many times she returned to meditating on all the miraculous and wondrous things that happened at Jesus’ birth.

Like Mary, we will have times when things get tough because of our connection to Jesus. In those moments, we should stop and reflect on the miraculous things we’ve experienced in Christ. We may not always understand what’s happening, but meditating on the work of Christ will help us keep trusting Him.

Mary treasured and meditated; the shepherds proclaimed. These are actions all followers of Jesus need to take, as well. Our task is simple: proclaim all that we’ve seen, heard, and experienced to whoever will listen.

LIVE IT OUT

How will Jesus' birth influence your actions and attitudes this week? Consider taking one or more of the following steps:

- ▶ Treasure. Think on the things you've seen or heard that have confirmed God's reality and power to you. Treasure these moments in your heart so you can recall them when times get rough.
- ▶ Write. Write out your testimony—what Jesus has done in your life—and pray about finding one person you can share it with this week.
- ▶ Celebrate. Determine one or more ways you can turn the celebration of Christmas into a proclamation of what Christ has done for you. How can you, like the shepherds, proclaim what you've seen and heard about Jesus?

Jesus didn't become part of our world for some cosmic tourism opportunity. He came on a mission to restore our relationships with God. He came to give us an opportunity to connect with God in a meaningful way. How will you respond?
