The Point
One day we will fully experience who God created us to be.

The Passage
Revelation 21:1-8

The Bible Meets Life
None of us has an idyllic life. Health issues, disappointing relationships, and stumbling blocks in a world full of sin and insecurity pull us down. Thankfully though, this world is not all there is. The closing chapters of the Book of Revelation show us God provides a permanent home where He will dwell with those in His family. It is a home with no health issues, no insecurities, and no sin. In Christ, we are promised the perfect home with Him.

The Setting
One day Christ will return to earth for His people and He will engage in a final battle with the enemies of God. Following the Lord’s decisive victory in the end times, His people will live with Him forever in His presence. This will come about in a new heaven and a new earth—an ideal place where sin is absent and everything is perfect. Those who have a relationship of faith with God through Jesus Christ will fully experience who He created them to be.
Revelation 21:1-8 (CSB)

1 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more.

2 I also saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared like a bride adorned for her husband.

3 Then I heard a loud voice from the throne: Look, God’s dwelling is with humanity, and he will live with them. They will be his peoples, and God himself will be with them and will be their God.

4 He will wipe away every tear from their eyes. Death will be no more; grief, crying, and pain will be no more, because the previous things have passed away.

5 Then the one seated on the throne said, “Look, I am making everything new.” He also said, “Write, because these words are faithful and true.”

6 Then he said to me, “It is done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. I will freely give to the thirsty from the spring of the water of life.

7 The one who conquers will inherit these things, and I will be his God, and he will be my son.

8 But the cowards, faithless, detestable, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars— their share will be in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death.”

The Alpha and the Omega (v. 6)—In the Greek alphabet, alpha is the first letter while omega is the last letter. This title of God emphasizes completion—from beginning to end.

The lake that burns with fire and sulfur (v. 8)—A place of eternal torment (Revelation 20:10), Jesus noted it was originally “prepared for the devil and his angels”—the enemies of God (Matthew 25:41).

The second death (v. 8)—This spiritual death is marked by eternal punishment and separation from God. It is experienced by those who reject God’s offer of salvation through faith in Jesus Christ.
GET INTO THE STUDY

DISCUSS: Invite your group members to discuss Question #1 on page 53 of the PSG (Personal Study Guide): “What do you like best about a fresh start?” Allow time for each person to respond.

SUMMARIZE THE PSG (PAGE 54):
Over the course of my adult life, I’ve owned five houses. Each move to another house represented a change in our lives, such as a shift in ministry or relocation to a new city. With each move, my family started fresh with schools, church families, and even finding the best Mexican food in town. While it was sad to leave a house we liked and say goodbye to good friends, we also experienced the thrill of a new chapter in our lives.

Each new chapter, though, was not without its challenges. Health issues arose. Key relationships went through unexpected changes. Each new place we lived included an ebb and flow to life that wasn’t always idyllic.

SAY: “The closing chapters of the Book of Revelation show us that God provides a permanent home where He will live with us forever. And this home will be perfect.”

ACTIVITY (OPTIONAL): Display a photo of a home you’ve lived in that was especially meaningful. A photo of a childhood home, first home you purchased, or even a dream home will work. Share about what makes this home special. Explain that the home God has created for His people will far surpass any earthly home we’ve lived in or wished for because it will be with Him.

GUIDE: Call attention to The Point on page 54 of the PSG: “One day we will fully experience who God created us to be.”

PRAY: Transition into the discussion with prayer.

---

TIP: This is the last session of this six-week study. Make a point to offer group members a time to review and share what God has taught them through this study.

---

PLAYLIST PICK:
“Death Was Arrested”
By North Point InsideOut
Revelation 21:1-3 (CSB)

1 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. 2 I also saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared like a bride adorned for her husband. 3 Then I heard a loud voice from the throne:

Look, God’s dwelling is with humanity, and he will live with them. They will be his peoples, and God himself will be with them and will be their God.

DISCUSS: Question #2 on page 55 of the PSG: “What are some ways our culture expresses the concept of heaven?”

SAY: “In the Book of Revelation, the apostle John was given a vision of what the end times will be like. Chapter 21 opens with a picture of this future reality.”

READ: Ask a group member to read aloud Revelation 21:1-3.

SUMMARIZE THE PSG (PAGES 55-56): The Creator of the universe is an expert at making things new. One day we will see the extent of His work in “making everything new” (v. 5). John’s words give a vivid description of what God has in store.

» A new heaven and a new earth. A day is coming when the evil and devastation humanity has brought on this earth no longer will be a part of God’s good creation. The apostle Peter wrote about the destruction of the heavens and earth by a great fire (2 Peter 3:10-13), and as John saw in his vision, a new heaven and earth will emerge.

» No more sea. When John had this vision, he had been exiled to the island of Patmos, separated from his church in Ephesus by the Aegean Sea. Some scholars believe the phrase “the sea was no more” (v. 1) means that in the future new world, God’s people will no longer be separated from one another or from the Lord.

» The new Jerusalem. The metaphor of a bride and groom portrays the arrival of the new city of Jerusalem. It will be the dwelling place of God and His people.

» A new way of life. This is the best news of all. God will now dwell with us. In our future home, we will experience the presence of God like never before.
Revelation 21:1-3 Commentary

Verse 1: Throughout history most humans have not experienced what God originally intended—perfect fellowship with Him in His presence. Revelation 21 opens with a picture of the restoration of this fellowship. The apostle John, who had been given a vision of the end times, had just finished describing the ultimate and final battle that would take place between the Lord Jesus Christ and the enemies of God (Revelation 20:7-10).

Then, John witnessed “a new heaven and a new earth.” Earlier in Revelation 20:11, at God’s great white throne, both earth and heaven “fled from his presence” (Revelation 20:11). John reemphasized that “the first heaven and the first earth had passed away.” Jesus Himself affirmed, “Heaven and earth will pass away” (Matthew 24:35). Paul noted that all creation has been “subjected to futility” (Romans 8:20)—it was in bondage to sin and suffered from decay and corruption. Thus it has been eagerly anticipating the day when it would be released from bondage and would be completely remade (vv. 19-21), perfectly fashioned by God to fulfill His original intention. Apparently everything had been so corrupted by sin that it needed to be destroyed. This was not annihilation (total extinction) but rather the beginning of a radical transformation.

The mention of heaven in this verse does not refer to the dwelling of God, which is a place of perfection and has no need for renewal (see Hebrews 8:1; 9:24). Instead, the reference is most likely to everything above the earth that we call the heavens—clouds, sky, atmosphere, and celestial bodies.

Verse 2: Often referred to as the holy city (Isaiah 52:1; Matthew 4:5; 27:53), the Jews considered Jerusalem great and glorious. However, its magnificence came to an end in AD 70 when much of the city was destroyed by the Roman legions following a Jewish revolt. In his vision John saw a new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God.

Verse 3: John used relational language to highlight the new Jerusalem God had prepared and given to His people. Then the apostle expanded on this relationship as he shared the incredible words he heard from the throne. The loud voice brought attention to a very important announcement: “God’s dwelling is with humanity.” This proclamation echoed Jesus’ promise that He was going away “to prepare a place” for His people and He would “come again … so that where I am you may be also” (John 14:2-3). John witnessed the culmination of Jesus’ promise, which was foretold by Ezekiel (Ezekiel 37:27) and declared by the writer of Hebrews (Hebrews 11:16)—God will forever live with everyone who has been made right with Him through faith in Jesus Christ.
Revelation 21:4-5 (CSB)

4 He will wipe away every tear from their eyes. Death will be no more; grief, crying, and pain will be no more, because the previous things have passed away. 5 Then the one seated on the throne said, “Look, I am making everything new.” He also said, “Write, because these words are faithful and true.”

READ: Ask a group member to read aloud Revelation 21:4-5.

SUMMARIZE THE PSG (PAGES 56-57): Sin entered our world in the garden of Eden. Our sin has wreaked havoc in our world, and we all have felt the consequences of it. But thankfully, the Lord is going to restore His children.

» When we repent and turn to Him in faith, He removes the penalty and consequence of our sin, which brings us into a relationship with Him.

» In heaven, we will be fully in His presence and know the joy His presence brings.

» Thankfully, sadness will end one day. “Death will be no more; grief, crying, and pain will be no more” (v. 4). Let that sink in. No more death. No more grief. No more crying. No more pain.

DISCUSS: Question #3 on page 56 of the PSG: “How can these promises for the future provide comfort for the present?”

DO: Instruct group members to complete the activity on page 59 on their own. If time allows, invite volunteers to share their responses aloud.

ALTERNATE QUESTION: What emotions do you experience when you read these verses?

NO ORDINARY HOME: Consider the promises in Revelation 21:3b-4. Copy the verses and then replace the group words and plural pronouns with singular pronouns. (For example, change “humanity” to “me”, “them” to “me”, “they” to “I”, and so on.)

TRANSITION: So far, John’s words in this passage teach us that we will live in God’s presence and it will be a perfect place. The next verses reveal who will be with God in this future home.
Revelation 21:4-5 Commentary

Verse 4: The garden of Eden was the perfect home God originally designed for humanity. While that was only a temporary place for the first humans, God has prepared another perfect place for His people where we will live with Him for eternity.

Interpreters have varying opinions on the meaning of “He will wipe away every tear from their eyes.” Some suggest this grief is from such experiences as the loss of loved ones, the pain of broken lives and broken relationships. Others suggest the tears are not from loss and regret, but rather from the pain and sacrifices experienced for being faithful to Christ in the world. Perhaps such tears encompass both meanings and more. Because of the reality of sin in this world, none of us have escaped its consequences, which include “grief, crying, and pain.” Of course, the ultimate penalty of sin is death, the judgment God warned against in Genesis 2:17. We have experienced heartache, suffering, and loss because of rebellion, disease, cruelty, and more. While a relationship with Jesus gives us peace, strength, and hope in the midst of life’s circumstances, nothing can compare to the reality we will experience in God’s eternal kingdom.

None of these negative experiences of humanity will exist any longer, because “the previous things have passed away.” Our present earth and all the pains and hardships of this life will one day pass away. In their place will be a new dwelling to live in and a new way of living, both of which will be perfect. We will experience life as God originally intended it, just as Isaiah prophesied (Isaiah 25:8; 35:10).

Verse 5: John saw a vision of “the one seated on the throne.” John had earlier seen a similar vision (Revelation 4:2) after he was invited to witness the things that were to come as part of God’s divine plan. It is not stated whether the One seated on the throne is God the Father or God the Son. However, in Revelation 1:4-5 John distinguished between Jesus Christ and “the one who is, who was, and who is to come” who sits on the throne. The same language is used in Revelation 4:8-9 by the four living creatures as they praise the One seated on the throne. However, in Revelation 5:6, Jesus Christ, the Lamb, stands in the midst of the throne. Whether the reference is to God the Father or God the Son in Revelation 21:5, the throne represents God’s sovereignty and majestic glory.

Since only God is Creator, only He can create on the scale described here. Perhaps His words in this verse were intended to confirm the previous vision John had seen. On the other hand, God may have spoken them simply to emphasize His own care and concern for the redeemed of humanity, which is seen in His actions described throughout this chapter. Regardless of why He spoke, the Lord emphasized, “Look, I am making everything new.” This was always God’s plan and intention, and it is what He will do.
Revelation 21:6-8 (CSB)

6 Then he said to me, “It is done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. I will freely give to the thirsty from the spring of the water of life. 7 The one who conquers will inherit these things, and I will be his God, and he will be my son. 8 But the cowards, faithless, detestable, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars—their share will be in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death.”

READ: Ask a group member to read aloud Revelation 21:6-8.

SUMMARIZE THE PSG (PAGE 58): Consider God’s promises in this passage:

» God freely gives salvation to those who ask. “I will freely give to the thirsty from the spring of the water of life” (v. 6). Salvation is all about grace. Only God Himself can quench the spiritual thirst we feel.

» Those who are saved belong to God’s family. “The one who conquers will inherit these things, and I will be his God, and he will be my son” (v. 7). God the Father has one Son, Jesus (John 3:16), but He has many adopted children (Romans 8:15-17; Galatians 4:4-7). As a child of the King, any adopted son or daughter is an heir and joint-heir with Jesus.

» The unrepentant will not live in heaven. Verse 8 includes a list of people who will not inherit the kingdom, and the list is representative, not exhaustive. People who are guilty of these same sins will be in heaven, so why will some be permitted into heaven while others will be excluded? The difference is that one set of people will have responded to the gospel and God’s offer of grace. Sadly, the members of the other group chose to continue in their sin. Their future is an eternity without God.

DISCUSS: Question #4 on page 57 of the PSG: “How do these promises reflect God’s character?”

DISCUSS: Question #5 on page 58 of the PSG: “What can we say for certain about eternity based on this passage?”

TRANSITION: In Christ, we are promised the perfect home with Him.

ALTERNATE QUESTION:
What part of these descriptions of heaven are you most looking forward to?
Revelation 21:6-8 Commentary

Verse 6: God declared, “It is done!” The emphasis is on the events John had already witnessed and the words God had already spoken—they were completed or fulfilled. God’s plan is accomplished! He is “the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end.” The phrases are synonymous since in the Greek alphabet the beginning letter is \textit{alpha} while the ending letter is \textit{omega}. This designation is a reminder that God completes what He starts. Furthermore, God was present in the beginning before He created anything, and He is the end, the purpose for which all things were created.\footnote{Paige Patterson, \textit{Revelation}, vol. 39 in \textit{The New American Commentary} (Nashville: B&H Publishing Group, 2012), 365–66.}

Water is used throughout the Bible in reference to spiritual life, which comes only through a relationship with God through faith in Jesus Christ. God described Himself as “the fountain of living water” (Jeremiah 2:13) and God invited those who were thirsty to freely drink from the “water” He provides (Isaiah 55:1). Jesus emphasized the spiritual need of humanity when He spoke of the “living water” (John 4:10) that brings “eternal life” (v. 14). God freely offers this gift of water to anyone who is thirsty. While the redeemed have already partaken of the living water freely offered by Jesus, “the spring of the water of life” pictures a never-ending satisfaction. This will be experienced by all who live with God in the New Jerusalem (Revelation 21:9-27) as a result of their relationship with Jesus Christ.

Verse 7: Jesus noted that He is the ultimate Victor who has “conquered the world” (John 16:33). He has overcome all the evil powers of this world that stand opposed to God and His plan. Believers share in Jesus’ victory, having overcome the world through their faith in Jesus as the Son of God (1 John 5:4-5). As we persevere in our faith and demonstrate it through our obedience and good works, we will inherit and forever enjoy all the blessings and benefits (these things) noted previously in this chapter.

Verse 8: God issues a warning that presents a great contrast to what His children will experience for eternity. He calls attention to the ultimate destiny of those who are “cowards, faithless, detestable, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars.” This is not an exhaustive list but rather a general representation of those who ignored God’s commands and rejected His grace—the salvation He offers freely to every kind of sinner through faith in Jesus Christ.

Whereas most people will experience physical death because of the reality of sin, those who have rejected God’s salvation will also experience the second death. Unlike the redeemed who will experience the glories of eternal life, those who have rejected God will share only in eternal death “in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur,” where, as Jesus noted, “the fire is not quenched” (Mark 9:48).
LIVE IT OUT

Say: “A day is coming when we will experience all God created us to be. We’ll live in a sinless, perfect place with God as our Father. How will that truth impact your life this week?”

Guide: Lead group members to consider the responses to the Bible study listed on page 60 of the PSG.

» Thank God for what He has done, what He is doing, and what He will do. If you are a believer, take a moment to thank the Lord for placing you in His “forever family.” Thank Him for the grace that saved you.

» Become a Christ-follower. If you are unsure whether or not God will allow you into heaven, talk to your group leader or check out the inside front cover of this book. God desires to make things “new” in your life through His forgiveness and grace.

» Share the hope Christ offers. Think of someone you know who is going through a difficult time. Use this passage as a way to encourage this person in the midst of current struggles.

---

Wrap It Up

Say: “Of the five houses I’ve lived in, the one I am currently in is my favorite, by far. But I will gladly give it up when God brings me into my new, permanent home with Him.”

---

Grow with other group leaders at the Groups Ministry blog.
LifeWay.com/GroupMinistry
If a church is not intentional about starting new groups, it will soon find itself in trouble. For every new group you start, you can figure you’ll increase average attendance by approximately ten people. From my experience, you know it’s time to start a new group when you see the following things.

» A group has been together for at least two years.

It’s really hard for guests to break into new groups when they have been together for longer than two years. Members have formed relationships and shared life with one another. By the time a group approaches its second birthday, it’s time to consider starting a new group as different members approach new seasons of life.

» A group doesn’t see a steady stream of guests.

It’s true; groups “cool off” after a time and will often turn inward. Sunday mornings become “all about them,” not about people who don’t yet know Christ. But if you can recruit people to leave the group and start a new one, it’s almost guaranteed they will reach more people for Christ and demonstrate an excitement for kingdom growth the mother group hasn’t known in years. Maybe that excitement will rub off and inspire the mother group to move to new heights of evangelism.

» A group has ceased to grow.

When a group no longer adds people to its ministry roll, it’s time to start a new group. The group may have done a good job in the past of reaching new people, but over time the growth may have slacked off. It’s possible that the influx of newer group members has frustrated the charter members of the group, and therefore they have become resistant to reaching any more new people.

» A group fills their meeting space beyond 80 percent of capacity.

The 80/20 rule is real; it simply states that groups will struggle to grow beyond 80 percent of their meeting room’s capacity. When a group exceeds 80 percent of its seating capacity, the room is visually full to guests. A group can certainly exceed 80 percent of its seating capacity, but if this continues the attendance rate is likely to drop. People like elbow room, so think about square footage standards that recommend adults each have 15 square feet of space. A group that averages 15 adults needs at least 225 square feet of space.

» The fall season comes around.

Most churches experience a boost in Bible study attendance every fall. It normally begins in August with the onset of school, as people begin settling into routines again after a summer of rest and relaxation. August/September is a great time to launch new groups. If a church was averaging 150 people in Sunday School and started one new group in its preschool, children, student, and adult ministries, it should grow by 40 people. Within one year, it will average 190 people (new groups tend to add 10 people on average). The hardest part is to be intentional every year and have a game plan to start new groups.

Ken Braddy is manager of LifeWay’s ongoing Bible studies. He leads a weekly Bible study group at his church, and blogs daily about Sunday School at kenbraddy.com.

This article originally appeared on the Groups Ministry blog. Used by permission. For more articles on leading your group, visit: www.lifeway.com/groupministry.